Speaking the Quiet Truth

A Community Education Talk on Grooming, Silence and Safety

This is a newly available lived experience community education talk offered for the first time in 2026. It has been developed with a strong safety framework, clear boundaries and a calm delivery approach designed for mixed audiences.

ABOUT ROSE

Rose Davidson is a lived experience speaker and creator of The Impactful Voice Project™, helping communities understand grooming patterns, disclosure dynamics, and the long term impacts of childhood sexual abuse. As a survivor who knew at ten that what was happening was wrong, and whose mother once said “He loves you more than me,” Rose brings insight, truth, and compassion to conversations most people avoid. She speaks to empower teachers, parents, youth workers, and community leaders to recognise signs early and act with confidence.

WHO ROSE SPEAKS TO

- Primary and high school communities
- Teachers, support staff, and youth workers
- Community and not for profit organisations
- Corporate and government teams seeking trauma informed awareness

THE IMPACTFUL VOICE PROJECT

ONE VOICE. INFINITE IMPACT.

SPEAKING TOPICS

Understanding Grooming Patterns: What Every Adult Needs to Know

Practical education on grooming behaviours, boundary testing, and adult blind spots, with a focus on early recognition and action.

“I Knew at Ten”: A Survivor’s Perspective on Prevention and Awareness

Rose shares parts of her story to highlight how grooming works in everyday life and what could have made a difference sooner.

Shifting Shame to Understanding

Helping adults see survivor behaviours through a compassionate lens, reducing judgement and increasing understanding.

The Silencing of Children: How Disclosure Really Happens

Why children do not speak up, how they often test for safety, and the subtle ways they may disclose without using direct language.

Creating Safe Classrooms and Communities

Simple, repeatable practices that help adults build environments where children feel believed, heard, and supported.
